It's Not About the Blueberries

This Mattapoisett Life

By Marilou Newell

Flashback to July 2008: Blueberries conjure a lovely memory of being with my girlfriends in a field on a summer's day. A lifelong dear friend lives in Potter's Place, New Hampshire, a mere curve in a road that transports one back to a time when the land held the riches that a good life could be built upon. Near her home is a farm with acres of blueberries that were ready to harvest. She had called to let me and our other two pals know that time was of the essence. We packed up and headed due north for a few days of blueberry picking and friendship. In the hours we spent together that weekend, with the fireflies dancing in the thick dark of a woodland night, we caught up on life's struggles through the filtered lens of our personal experiences and comforted one another.

The next morning, we arrived at the blueberry patch where, for as far as the eye could see, were row after magnificent row of blueberry bushes. Bees presented us with a hallelujah chorus as we spread out to harvest the ripe blue gems. The air was scented with some unknown flowering specimen. As we walked around the bushes, we drifted into our own space and thoughts. The warm air and near silence of the late morning ambience cradled our souls. Each of us found the healing we needed at that moment.

We were nourished in ways that have lasted since that visit. We carry with us the memory of being together, loving, comforting and supporting one another as only good friends can. On that weekend, we laid our burdens down if just for a little while and were at peace.

It wasn't about picking blueberries. It was about being with dear friends, kinship, sisterhood, a type of mothering, a coming together for the sheer pleasure of being among friends. It wasn't about the blueberries at all. It was about relationships that are worth preserving and the restorative power of pure natural soundings.

Fast forward to August 2013: A professional acquaintance of mine told me about a blueberry patch that the Mattapoisett Land Trust had acquired from the Brownell family. She thought it would make a good story and gave me contact information to follow up. Paul Osenkowski, "Ozzy," was a primary contact. Ozzy graciously agreed to meet and show me the location of the blueberry acreage. Within the first 30 seconds of speaking with him, it was clear to me “it wasn’t about the blueberries.”

Ozzy spoke fluidly, honestly and openly about his vision for this parcel, a place where families could come together working on the blueberry bushes, in coming years harvesting the blueberries, and being grounded to a place that would imprint upon their beings a sense of importance. His long-term hope for future generations is that they would and could have Mattapoisett reign in their memory as a place where they grew to appreciate their surroundings and be good stewards of the land. An integral part of the whole land trust movement is the notion of involving families in the care of Mattapoisett’s most sensitive land mass areas.

Ozzy said that the focus starts in the uplands and moves all the way down to the harbor, that protecting the delicate balance of the marshlands and the aquifer has to be “imprinted” on our children as critical work lest we lose our coastal resplendence.

For the Osenkowski family, like many other families in town, Mattapoisett started out as a summer retreat. I was transported as he shared with me his childhood memories of spending summers in Harbor Beach with family members of all generations: the swimming, the running, the simply being in nature with loved ones all around. He and his wife, Sue, selected Mattapoisett as their retirement home. For his wife, it was the hands-down choice.

And so, as he herded me across the gauntlet known as Route 6 from the Friends’ Meeting House parking lot over to Sippican Lane and down the newly cleared road to the blueberry bushes, he gave me an overview of the people who have come together forming the Land Trust’s backbone.

There was Allan Schubert, who worked long and hard to bring Salty back to life as the landmark we now know so well. There was Martin Hudis, whose work on redesigning Salty’s eyes with solar panels gives the roadside monument an ethereal nighttime elegance. There was Ruth Bates, who helped on many fronts, including bringing the children together to enjoy the old Dunseith property. There was Barry Denham, who as a kid with his father dug the pond that once sat on the parcel. There was John Haley, former head of the Recreation Department, who coined the phrase "Mattapoisett is Special." There was Dan Shea, whose knowledge of trees and landscaping has proven invaluable to the work done on land trust properties. Ozzy said Wes Bowman's hands-on capabilities were critical to the work that has needed to be done. He said that Dan Sullivan and his family rebuilt Tub Mill dam. Tom Simonson provided much-needed equipment for heavy work on various projects. And there is Charles Dupont, a landscape designer and past Mattapoisett Land Trust president, as well as Mike Huguenin, who Ozzy described as a "blueberry fanatic."

"These people are not takers of the community," Ozzy asserted. "They are doers who give to the community – they are the heart of the community."

Of the people that came to Ozzy's mind as he passionately downloaded the work of the Land Trust and how vital it is to the overall health and wealth of the community, he also spoke of several key families who have donated or sold land to the trust: Grace, Walega/

On the Land Trust's website, one will find a comprehensive list of all preserved spaces, trails and maps, as well as all of the families who have contributed precious parcels in protected status, and how you can help with the ongoing work: www.mattlandtrust.org.

As we slowly returned to the hustle and bustle of Route 6 to make the death-defying dash, he said he hoped that they would be able to provide some parking spaces on the south side of Route 6 one day. Upon reaching the safety of the Friends' parking lot, he concluded, "We need to protect the tone and the heart of this town."

I couldn't help but be reminded of my weekend with friends, where blueberries had been the excuse to get together and put the rush of life aside for a moment. And so it is with many of the Land Trust goals, to give the town of Mattapoissett places that not only protect nature's glory, but to allow people to come together, enjoy being outdoors, set aside electronic devices and allow themselves to be reconnected to each other. No, it's not about the blueberries, not really, although the taste is divine. It's about coming together as a community, a family, and all of the benefits that being connected as people imparts, while working to preserve this Mattapoissett life.

A Cautionary Tale: Wear a Bike Helmet

By Joan Hartnett-Barry

Jane McCarthy, a Marion resident, spent the evening of her 25th wedding anniversary in the emergency room after falling off of her bicycle on Converse Road in June. McCarthy was The Wanderer's 2012 Keel Award winner for Marion for her years of service to the town.

"We had dinner as a family and were going to have dessert at home," McCarthy recalled, "and I decided to do a quick, short bike ride of about three miles up to Route 6 and back home, something I do often, just to get some fresh air and exercise."

She remembered later that the last thing her husband said to her was, "Don't forget your helmet." She did not wear the helmet.

After going only three or four houses away, she spotted a neighbor and braked to chat.

"I put on the brake with my left hand and stopped so suddenly that I went over the handlebars, landed on my chin and chest, partially broke my fall with my wrist, rolled over and hit the back of my head and lay there in the road," McCarthy said.

For the first 24 hours, she couldn't find the words to talk. When asked questions by her family and doctors at the emergency room, she said she couldn't formulate the words to reply.

"In the ER, they asked me to sign a form, and I was given a pen, but didn't know what to do with it," McCarthy said. "And I wasn't even unconscious after I fell, but the head injury was so debilitating and I was paralyzed mentally."

McCarthy's story has a happy ending. She recovered from her fall, but still has lingering pain in her wrist.

"I still can't hold a coffee cup," she says. She described weeks of being in a bad mood, feeling angry and showing impatience with others; she was just not her usual happy self. "It took a good three and a half weeks before the cloud lifted and I felt like myself again."

Over the July 4 weekend, McCarthy said she took notice of the many bicyclists that passed by her home.

"I'd estimate that less than 50 percent of them were wearing helmets," she said. "I felt like running out and telling them all to go get their helmets."

The Massachusetts state law requires children under the age of 12 to wear a helmet, but local police find it very difficult to enforce.

"We hold two bike safety training sessions at Center School, the first at the beginning of the school year when children want to bike to school," said Mary Lyons, Chief of Police in Mattapoissett.

When asked if police will stop a child without a helmet and ask them about it, Lyons said that it becomes a liability issue.

"If you send the child in a different direction, back home as opposed to where they were going, and something happens along the way, there would be legal issues involved," she explained. "It's tricky and ultimately up to the parents to make sure their children are safe and wearing their helmets."

"I didn't wear my helmet because I thought that, well, I'm only going three miles and at a leisurely pace on a street with little to no traffic, and I'm safe," McCarthy said. "We think we're invincible and it isn't going to happen to us, but it does."

McCarthy wanted to give advice to those reading this article: "Please wear your helmet and have your children wear their helmets, so that what happened to me won't happen to you or a loved one."

Technology Upgrades at MPD By Marilou Newell

Police departments around the globe are now armed with a new tool to help them and the communities they serve stay informed and stay safer in a world that seems ever more dangerous. Mattapoisett's Police Department recently announced the introduction of a mobile application with features to help our residents, as well as an updated new website.

Some of the features the new app includes are department contact information, public notifications, feedback and tips forms, as well as options to retrieve information from FEMA, the National Weather Service and the National Terror Advisory System. Other uses include links for wanted persons, sex offenders and blog postings. The phone application can be downloaded for free. Go to My Police Department or MyPD in the iPhone or Android marketplace. Once downloaded, you simply navigate to the Mattapoisett Police. The app will work on iPhone and Android devices.

Chief Lyons' official public announcement stated, "This police app is a great addition to our agency ... We can now push out notifications and alerts, and the public has a variety of ways to contacts us. The goal of our MyPD app is to give our public a one-stop app option with plenty of features and to open the lines of communication."

Users can choose not only the Mattapoisett

Police app but they also have the option to view other police departments on MyPD by choosing a different city or state. The app defaults to the last agency viewed when first opened; this makes it easy to open just the Mattapoissett Police Department information.

The department home screen contains a number of features with more located in the bottom menu that activates upon touch or swipe.

Lyons also stated, "Our app's crime tips or questions and feedback features allow a user to choose a topic from the form's dropdown menu that best suits them, and that message will then be routed to the correct officer ... Forms can be sent anonymously to the department, but we encourage an email address or phone number if you would like a response. Users also have the availability to upload photos with the app tip and feedback forms."

The app is not intended to take the place of using 9-1-1 in the event of an emergency. Always use 9-1-1 when reporting a crime or to get immediate assistance. With kids back in school and nearly all who are old enough using mobile cell phones, having this tool on their phones may prove helpful to them, as well. The kids may even be able to help the parents upload the app to their phones.

More app information can be found on the Mattapoissett Police Department's newly updated website at www.mattapoissettpolice.com and the MyPD police app website at www.MyPDapp.com, or by going to the app

Remembering The Hurricane of '38

By Marilou Newell

In 1938, she was 15 years old and living on 8th Street in Onset. She had been taking care of her father for several years after he suffered a paralyzing stroke at the age of 40. With the storm bearing down on them and her father lying in a first-floor bedroom, the family made their plans. Her brothers stationed an ash can in the middle of the street in front of their two-story home. Her four brothers decided that if the water came over the top of the ash can, they would have to move their father to the second floor. Her father felt useless and helpless, unable to take care of his family during this crisis. His children had only one thought: "We can't let Pa drown." (Priscilla Billard Newell)

In 1938, he was 5 years old and living on Main Street in Mattapoissett. He was just a small boy riding his peddle car up and down Main Street. His little peddle car was a dump truck version of this mechanized riding toy. So as the small branches were torn from the canopy above the Main Street home he and his family shared with his grandmother, he filled his dump truck and peddled to the backyard to keep Main Street nice and clean. Soon his mother was calling to his father, "Charlie, get that boy in here!" (Seth Mendell)

My mother is now 90. When I asked her to recall the Hurricane of '38, she closed her eyes and gave her head a shake that was more like a shudder.

"... A lot of people didn't get out in time ... they lost everything," she said. When the storm was finally over, her family would consider themselves among the lucky.

My mother's friend and the friend's mother had had to swim to safety. Their house was gone. A neighbor across the street from her home lost their house when a huge oak tree severed it nearly in two.

She said, "The winds were horrendous. We were worried that the big oak tree in Ma's front yard would come down, too, on our house," she sighed with relief as if it were today, "but it didn't happen."

Mendell shared his experiences from that singular event to a gathering of about 120 people in Shipyard Park, the site of so much damage in 1938. His first-person lecture on September 1 of the Hurricane of '38 is part of a month-long offering from the Mattapoisett Historical Society. He brought to life what it was like on that day all those years ago: September 21, 1938 when the "Great New England Hurricane" wrecked havoc that would be remembered all these years later.

Mendell said the hurricane took its track up the eastern seaboard instead of landing and dissipating in Miami, Fla. as the meteorologists believed would be the case. Instead, the confluence of a jet stream full of heat and humidity, which pumped the weather system full of moisture and wind power, along with two high pressure systems north of its location eventually forced the hurricane to "hitch a ride" due north and into New England.

Even the Boston Globe was so confident that the weather front which had started in Africa would land in Miami and go no further, that when it soared over the Cape Verdean Islands, plowed south to the Caribbean and then flew north/northeast into Narragansett Bay, the Connecticut River and Buzzards Bay – nothing was said.

By 4:00 pm on that fateful day, Mattapoisett was fully under the control of weather it had not anticipated that morning. By then, the harbor was unrecognizable with huge waves breaking over the piers and filling what is today's parking area until it was part of the ocean itself. Mendell told the crowd, "People were, by then, really

Animal Advice Jay Gould, DVM

RABIES

My neighbor and I were talking about our indoor only cats. When I asked who her vet was she said that she had never taken her cat to the vet. She said that the cat needed no shots because it never went outside. Is this correct?

Unfortunately, no, this is neither correct nor a rare opinion. Indoor cats need vet care as much as outdoor cats. Vaccination for Rabies is a legal requirement as well as a good idea, at the very least. Rabid raccoons are common and do get into houses and indoor only cats sometimes end up outdoors. Thus, the cats' health and the health of the family may be endangered.

Your neighbor is also thinking of vets as emergency personnel. Much of our job is to prevent illness and suffering. Animal visits are geared towards making sure that the pet is indeed happy and comfortable. Dental disease, and the pain that goes with it, obesity and other problems are extremely common in indoor only cats.

getting concerned."

He said that records show a storm surge of well over 25 feet at Shipyard Park. Boats were ashore everywhere. The ocean filled the area from Good Speed Island to Water Street. Seawater reached the second floor of Mattapoisett's Town Hall, and the sound of the wind was beyond deafening.

In the 400 years that Mendell says hurricane information has been recorded, the hurricane of 1938 reigns at the top for loss of life and property damage. An estimated 500 people lost their lives. Houses were ruined or completely pushed upland or out to sea. Boats were cast to the sea floor or blown to Falmouth or Cuttyhunk.

I was about six when we had that hurricane. We lived on Blackmore Pond Road with my grandparents back then. There were only a few houses on that road, not like now. After the storm was over, us kids went to find our friends on the other side of the pond, but the road was covered, just covered with trees. Like matchsticks had fallen. We thought it was fun climbing over all those trees and yelling to each other, 'Hey, wait for me.' We were just kids, I didn't understand what had really happened. (Frances DaSilva Leighton)

Afterwards, when it was safe to go outside, the damage was indescribable. Most had never before experienced anything as profound.

"There were boats everywhere, all over the beaches; it was a mess," my mother reports. It would take many weeks for life to get back to normal. She continued, "We played cards to pass the time after we knew we didn't have to move Pa." No doubt, there was tremendous relief in that.

Mendell shared that boats were strewn from Shipyard Park to North Street. As he described it, "We were sitting ducks."

All Ages Enjoy Lions Movie Night

By Marilou Newell

Under a perfect late summer sky, temperatures in the low 70s and the air free of the mist that had plagued the previous day, the Mattapoisett Lions Club hosted the first in a series of outdoor movie nights at Shipyard Park. A good-sized crowd comprised of people of all ages, the young and the young at heart, gathered in a variety of seating arrangements to enjoy an open-air viewing of Back to the Future. But in keeping with the theatergoing of days gone by, first the crowd enjoyed "news of the day" movie reels, a cartoon and then the main feature.

Dan Bamberger, King Lion, and Marianne DeCosta, Second-Year Director, set up the 12-foot inflatable screen that the Lions received as a donation from Dunn Insurance prior to Harbor Days. During this year's Harbor Days, the Lions used the screen to show a movie one evening, much to the delight of the visitors. Building on that success, the Lions' Friday night movies will be shown in Shipyard Park for the next several weeks. The movies are shown free of charge and moviegoers also receive free popcorn.

Based on this evening's attendance, it appears that the Lions have a hit on their hands.

courses ranging from health careers, computers, technical trade, business, legal, culinary, and wellness and fun courses. There are over 85 faculty members in the program and all are talented, enthusiastic, dedicated and caring, according to Pat McPartland, a Marion resident, who heads up the Adult & Continuing Education for the high school.

"Adult education is critically important because people no longer stay at a job for 30 years, and most will have four or five different careers before they reach their 60s," says McPartland. According to McPartland, many adults attend night classes to stay current and update skills to maintain a job in today's work force. Others lose jobs or work seasonal construction jobs and need to have a skill to find employment, short or long-term.

"It's not easy for some to come back after being out of school, but our instructors know how to encourage, inspire and help students gain the skills they need to develop a new career," says McPartland.

The classes primarily focus on job skills and one of the most popular is the Home Health Aide certificate program. According to the Occupational Outlook Handbook and the Bureau of Labor Statistics, that field is expected to increase by 50 percent from 2008 to 2018.

"Nursing homes and assisted care facilities call us and ask for the names of those earning the certificate because the demand is soaring," said McPartland.

Mattapoisett resident Colby Rottler is a culinary instructor in the evening program.

"I've been teaching culinary for 10 years, four years with Upper Cape," says Rottler. "I enjoy teaching at the voc-tech because the facility is great and I get to create food, meet new people and share my experience and knowledge."

Rottler says he likes to "create art that is destroyed in two bites."

Donna Gibbs, a Marion resident, also teaches in the evening, specializing in the medical field. During the day, she works in the emergency room at Jordan Hospital.

"The quality of the faculty is phenomenal," says McPartland. Several other Tri-Town residents teach evening classes at the school and have done so for several

Facilities Manager Position Discussed

Marion Board of Selectmen

By Joan Hartnett-Barry

Over 30 applicants applied for the newly created position of Facilities Manager for the town of Marion. The Marion Board of Selectmen agreed at their meeting on Tuesday evening to form a subcommittee to review and winnow the applicants to a smaller number for consideration for the position.

"I'm pleased that we've had such a great number of applicants," said Selectman Jody Dickerson.

Dickerson was voted to be on the subcommittee, representing the BOS along with Town Administrator Paul Dawson and Gene Jones, Facility Manager for the ORR School District. The subcommittee will cull through the applicant pool and present less than 10 applicants for discussion with the BOS at a future meeting.

"Hopefully, we'll get it down to five soon," said Dawson.

Pamela Marean, a successful grant writer hired by the town of Marion over a year ago, came before the Marion Board of Selectmen with a request for approval to pursue a grant worth up to $500,000 for a GIS mapping system tied in with surrounding towns. The proposed grant would overlay assessors maps with open space, wetlands, historic districts, zoning, elevation, flood zone information and pretty much tell a resident a great deal about a parcel of land.

Marean discussed the grant and answered questions about it with the Board of Selectmen and Town Administrator Paul Dawson. At issue was getting a spearhead person at Town Hall who could work with Marean on the huge project.

"We're all busy and out straight," said Dawson, who intimated that it would be difficult to find someone who had any time to devote to such a large and ongoing project.

After feedback from Dawson regarding ownership of the massive project, the BOS decided to have Marean move slightly forward by attending a SRPEDD meeting scheduled for next week and getting back to them with her findings.

In other business, the Board approved the transfer of an all-alcohol retail package goods license from Marion Country Package Store, Inc. to ICJ Corporation. The new owners are residents of Marion and own another package store in Bedford, Mass. The complex purchased includes tenants Rose & Vicki's and Marion Re-Con, who plan to remain tenants in the complex.

"We're glad to see local residents owning this Marion complex," said Selectman Dickerson.

Two one-day all-alcohol licenses were approved for the Veterans of Foreign Wars Post 2425 for a spaghetti dinner on September 14 from 12:00 to 5:00 pm and a Tri-Town Republican Committee on September 21 from 12:00

The BOS, who are also the Water and Sewer Commissioners for the town, approved several financial commitments of $700 for New Services, $2,286.61 for Miscellaneous Sewer Issues and $9,777.43 for Final Readings.

Two additional one-day all-alcohol licenses were approved for the Marion Social Club for a steak dinner on September 22 from 12:00 to 4:00 pm and a clambake on October 20 from 12:00 to 4:00 pm.

A roof replacement quote for the Perry Hill facility was discussed and approved, with the order to proceed with the work.

A water leak/road repair at 24 Rezendes Terrace was discussed. At issue was a private road, built by a contractor many years ago, with utilities owned by the town. A leak, only assessable by going under a road to find a water turn-off valve, resulted in an excessive water leak and road repair.

Two candidates were proposed for the Marion Cultural Council and the Conservation Committee, and the BOS discussed the applications and wanted to meet the candidates – if possible – before taking a vote to approve the positions.

In final words, Jon Henry spoke in tribute to C.J. Heberd, who passed away last week.

"He was a friend to a lot of people downtown and a great neighbor to so many," said Henry. "He'd and the Marion Energy Management Committee. The deadline for putting the proposal on the town warrant for fall town meeting – to be held Monday, October 28 – is October 6, so the Board had to put the various options to the public and then take a vote as a Board.

Chairman Pat McArdle opened the meeting with three options on the solar bylaw discussion. The first question was whether the town should allow solar farms in residential areas. The second question was whether the town should prepare a Solar Overlay District for solar farms. The third question was whether the town should restrict solar farms in residential areas via a special permit with certain conditions.

“Let’s have the people discuss this bylaw in full and work it out at town meeting, on the floor,” said resident Margie Baldwin. At issue was dragging out the key question of allowing residential properties to have solar farms on their properties.

Energy Management Committee member Bill Saltonstall spoke and said that limiting solar farms to industrial or commercial properties didn’t make sense, as over 90 percent of Marion land is zoned residential, thus limiting the option to utilize the technology and encourage alternate energy options.

Saltonstall stood before a map of Marion and showed a small strip of land on Route 6 and the Lockheed Martin complex and said that if the bylaw restricts solar farms to commercial and industrial areas, that the small strip he pointed out with his finger was the only place where solar farms would be permitted.

“It’s unlikely that any solar farms would be created in this small strip of land,” said Saltonstall. Saltonstall said that the town should approve solar farms in residential zoned areas.

Saltonstall was the only individual at the meeting who has invested in solar panels at his residence, and answered questions about the positive use of solar energy now and in the future.

The Planning Board voted to bring the document, as drafted, to town meeting but then propose to strike the section on solar farms from the bylaw on the floor at town meeting.

Several residents brought up questions regarding the bylaw, including John Rockwell.

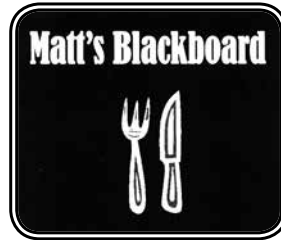

"I've been a farmer since the 80s and the wording here says 'farms' ... this is a commercial solar installation and perhaps you should reconsider the wording of the document," said Rockwell. Rockwell also brought up multiple issues which the Board agreed had not been considered in the discussions on the bylaw.

Another issue, raised by Board member Rico Ferrari, was that of evolving technology and how that would play out with the wording of the bylaw.

"In California, they are working on a solar shingle. How will the bylaw keep up with the technology developing in this area?" asked Ferrari.

Much positive discussion moved the Board to come to a vote, three to three with Chairman McArdle breaking the tie, to bring the current document to town meeting. The Board agreed that they would bring up the issue of solar farms in residential areas and let the town decide if the proposed portion of the bylaw will stay or be stricken from the bylaw.

The Board voted in favor of going to town meeting with the document, but continued the public hearing until September 16. The public is invited and encouraged to attend. Copies of the proposed solar bylaw can be picked up at the Marion Town House.

No Cars On Washburn Park Hiking Trail

Marion Conservation Commission

By Joan Hartnett-Barry

The Marion Conservation Commission recently walked the hiking trails at Washburn Park and found that the trail was 12 to 15 feet wide in some sections, and it appeared that vehicles had been riding on it. Their discussion on Wednesday evening ended with a decision to request that the Board of Selectmen ask the Department of Public Works to place logs or stones on either end so vehicles cannot enter. The trail starts at Washburn Park Road and runs to the skating pond.

In other business, the Commission discussed and approved a request for Determination of Applicability submitted by Nelson Wicas to re-landscape the grounds at 15 Bass Point Road. The work includes replacing a cedar hedge, transplanting holly and hydrangeas, adding topsoil to level the rear yard and re-seeding the lawn. The Commission requested that Wicas not increase the average existing grade and that hay bales, used to control runoff during the work, remain in place until the spring of 2014.

Next up, the Commission discussed a Request for Determination of Applicability submitted by Peter Bent to upgrade the septic system at 15 West Avenue, Planting Island. Currently the property, which consists of two lots that are commonly owned, has an old stone cesspool and a leaching field. The Commission agreed to the request with the condition that all excavation debris be taken off site. The applicant will start excavation and determine if the old cesspool needs to be filled in or removed. A large tree located in the area will be taken down prior to excavation.

Two different public hearings regarding neighbors on Lewis and Front Streets were discussed with both Frederic Danhauser of 36 Lewis Street and Henning Gaissert of 28 Front Street, who requested approval to fill and grade a lawn and garden area at 40 Lewis Street and 36 Lewis Street in order to create a grass swale to drain storm water towards Front Street.

Gaissert requested an amendment to his plan in eliminating an earth berm requirement at 28 Front Street and replace it with the grass swale requested by Danhauser. Both parties were in agreement that it was a good solution to eliminate a bowl of water where ducks would swim after heavy rain.

Chairman Larry Dorman noted that the land at 40 Lewis Street was owned by the Town of Marion for their pumping station house, which sits on the corner of the property.

"I'm uncomfortable approving this without the approval of the Board of Selectmen," said Dorman. The Commission agreed to contact the BOS and get written approval from them on the proposal.

Joseph and Susan Lasky came before the Commission with a Request for Determination of Applicability to replace an existing 10 foot by 12 foot deck with an enclosed 14 foot by 18 foot porch. The project is located at 33 Giffords Corner Road. The existing deck sits on three posts and an additional two posts will be poured. The Commission was concerned about roof runoff due to the property's proximity to wetlands. The applicants agreed to put gutters on the new porch so that runoff will be to the lawn on the other side of the wetland area.

Last up was a brief presentation of final plans presented by Bay Watch Realty Trust to construct a 96-unit affordable housing complex under Chapter 40B with associated parking areas, on site and off site utility connections, storm water management infrastructure and related mitigation measures. The project is located off Front Street (Route 105) and is adjacent to The Wave Restaurant. The discussion centered on the newly purchased piece of land that eliminates the need for a wooden bridge over wetlands. The Commission took the request under advisement.

New Eyes for the New School Year

ORR Update

By Renae Reints

A new school year has once again started at Old Rochester Regional High School. On the first day, each class had an assembly in the auditorium. Here, Principal Michael Devoll greeted the students and gave a pep talk to encourage another great year. He also introduced Bill Tilden, the school's Athletic Director, as the new campus aid. As campus aid, Tilden is employed at both the high school and the junior high. He acts as "an extra set of eyes" to help the busy administration.

The position of campus aid existed a few years ago, but was removed due to budget cuts. However, over the past few years the administration has realized its need for such a position. Too often, the principal or vice principal were being pulled out of meetings to deal with fairly trivial issues, such as accompanying a forgetful student to the parking lot to retrieve something from his or her car. With a campus aid, occupations like these fall to the aid's responsibility.

This year, Tilden will be busy as the first campus aid to cover both the junior high and the high school. His duties include supervision of all three lunch periods, in-school suspension and hallways during passing time. Tilden also acts as a sort of emergency response to small-scale issues.

As well as being campus aid, Tilden will continue his position as ORR's Athletic Director. He says his new job will not affect his athletic duties, besides pushing his hours a little more into the afternoon. "I love the kids here," Tilden said, so when the administration offered him a chance to spend more time with them, he thought, "why not?"

During the first few days of school, Tilden could be most often found directing befuddled freshmen to their classes. Though Tilden's directions probably saved many students from embarrassment, he is not alone in aiding the freshmen. Each freshman has a "senior buddy" from whom they can seek advice.

In late summer, all seniors in the National Honor Society (NHS) sent letters to their assigned group of freshmen students, introducing themselves and the school. At the end of the first day, the freshmen got to meet face-to-face with their senior buddy.

Paige Santos, a senior at ORR and a member of the NHS, felt positively about the meeting with her three freshman buddies. "They weren't overwhelmed," Santos said, struggling to find the right words to describe the younger students' quiet behavior, "but they were taking it all in."

Santos tried to ease any lasting first day nerves by providing helpful advice. She told her buddies to join a club or sport as soon as possible, as it's a great way to get involved and meet new people. Santos warned them that older students regret not joining a club earlier, as high school "goes by fast," and students should take advantage of these four great years at ORR.

ORR Sports Gear Up

ORR Sports Update

By Michael Kassabian

As the school year starts up, so do the sports teams at Old Rochester. All teams have been in preseason since August 22 (except football, which has been practicing since August 19), and many teams are starting to show signs of potential. Here is a look at a few of the teams that will be competing this fall at Old Rochester.

Football: Football is always the staple of fall sports. No one can resist the Friday night games and the tradition that goes along with it. This year, the Bulldogs look to have one of their most well-rounded and hopeful teams in recent memory. The team only lost 3 members to graduation this year, and only two of the three were starters. Senior Quarterback Nolan Bergeron is returning with varsity experience, and his twin brother Hayden returns as a wide receiver. In fact, the senior class is chalk full of talent, evident in running-back Richie Phillips, who scored 10 touchdowns last season and ran for over 800 yards. Classmate Colin Knapton is also a valuable asset to the offense, while Zach Bowen and Frank Hopkins will lead the defense. Overall, this team looks as if they can make some serious waves in the SCC, and should definitely improve from their 5-6 record from last season.

Field Hockey: The girls' field hockey team is always a powerhouse in the South Coast Conference. After finishing 12-2-2 last season and getting knocked out of the state tournament from Canton, the Lady Bulldogs look to win back the SCC Championship from league rival Apponequet, who stole the crown from ORR for the first time in 5 years. Although losing several key players to graduation, the team brings back a plethora of talented players, including varsity Goalie Hannah Cormier. Seniors Carly Pelissier, Jess Kocur and Madison Durr look to lead the team this year, with a valuable support system in juniors Darby Nolet and Devyn O'Connor.

Girls' Soccer: Here is another team that will have a powerful impact on the SCC, and possibly in the state tournament. Senior Captains Morgan DaSilva and Emily Beaulieu hope to lead their team to the SCC Championship that they narrowly missed last season. Although football has a powerful senior class, girls' soccer is ruled by juniors. Nicole Gifford, Bailey Truesdale, Kaleigh Goulart and Camille Filloramo are extremely strong players that have been playing together since elementary school. Paired with returning Goalie Mikayla Demanche, their team chemistry is unmatched. Sophomore Midfielder Sarah Beaulieu will not be ignored, as she exploded onto the scene last year, scoring 8 goals and notching 4 assists as a freshman. Together, this team has the potential to advance far into the postseason.

Cross Country: The girls' and boys' cross country teams differ greatly. The girls' team is looking to defend their undefeated SCC Championship streak, led by seniors Sammie Barrett, Paige Santos and Hannah Viera. Sophomore Rachel Scheub should also run well, and newcomer Emily Josephson should also have an impact on the Lady Bulldogs. The boys face more of a struggle. While the girls lost few of their top 7 runners, the boys lost 4 out of the 7. Although superstar Mike Wyman is returning, the Bulldogs will have to look for freshmen and sophomores to step up in order for the boys to repeat their second place standing in the SCC last year.

Boys' Soccer: Here is a team looking for redemption. Last year, the boys had lost 13 seniors and were not experienced in varsity play. Players like Robby Magee and Alden Truesdale stepped up big, and this initiative should help them to lead the Bulldogs to a winning record this year. Also led by a new head coach (Principal Michael Devoll), the boys hope to have a fresh start. Senior Mikey Pruchnik will help out this season, as will Evan and Will Santos, twin sophomores.

Although a talented senior class has graduated, underclassmen are stepping up to provide skill and leadership for the Old Rochester fall sports teams. In general, it looks as if there should be a talented array of teams this year that succeed on a league and statewide level.

America

Would you ever believe IT could happen to us?
The home of the free and the brave?
Just when we thought everything was fine
Not knowing we were walking a very fine line
Evil men were plotting to hijack our planes
Innocent men & women became victims all the same
They flew into one tower, than the other
The World Trade Center collapsed with our sisters & brothers
Not happy with this they flew into the Pentagon
Oh why? So many of our people are gone?
The third plane crashed in Pennsylvania
But the heroes within it saved lives for America
They thought they'd divide us

West Nile Virus Detected in Rochester

The Massachusetts Department of Public Health (MDPH) announced that West Nile Virus (WNV) has been detected in mosquitoes collected from the town of Rochester.

WNV is most commonly transmitted to humans by the bite of an infected mosquito. The mosquitoes that carry this virus are common throughout the state, and are found in urban as well as more rural areas. While WNV can infect people of all ages, people over the age of 50 are at a higher risk for severe infection.

By taking a few commonsense precautions, people can help to protect themselves and their loved ones:

Avoid mosquito bites:

Be aware of peak mosquito hours. The hours from dusk to dawn are peak biting times for many mosquitoes. Consider rescheduling outdoor activities that occur during the evening or early morning. If you are outdoors at any time and notice mosquitoes around you, take steps to avoid being bitten by moving indoors, covering up and/or wearing repellent.

Clothing can help reduce mosquito bites. Wear long sleeves, long pants and socks when outdoors to keep mosquitoes away from your skin.

Apply insect repellent when you go outdoors.

Use insect repellent with DEET, permethrin, picaridin or oil of lemon eucalyptus according to the instructions on the product label.

Mosquito-proof your home:

Drain standing water around your house. Many mosquitoes lay their eggs in standing water. Limit the number of places around your home for mosquitoes to breed by either draining or getting rid of items that hold water.

Install or repair screens. Some mosquitoes like to come indoors. Keep them outside by having tightly fitted screens on all of your windows and doors.

developed specifically for Asian and African elephants; an opportunity to learn about a frantic and radiant North American raptor that hunts fish by diving to the water's surface from some 30 to 100 feet up and builds nests on high poles using sticks; and hear a research professor from Rutgers University and the Rutgers Institute of Marine and Coastal Sciences describe our wacky weather pattern and disappearing Arctic Sea Ice. A woman of great passion and enthusiasm, she has a boundless thirst for offshore adventure and has achieved the badge of honor among sailors – circumnavigating the world in a sailboat.

The MWC is a great way to make new friends if you have recently relocated to this exquisite seaside community or have a general interest in Mattapoisett. "The club is dynamic and composed of many women with vastly different experiences, attitudes and education, making it well-suited and welcoming to new members," Marum said. "The club offers various interest groups, for example, a fascinating garden group, a stimulating literature group, an inspirational symphony group, a thought-provoking Great Decisions group that discusses foreign policy and Bridge groups that challenge the mind." The Mattapoisett Women's Club meets the third Thursday of the month beginning September 19 at 12:00 pm at the Mattapoisett Congregation Church, 27 Church Street.

American Legion Florence Eastman Post 280

The monthly meetings of the American Legion Florence Eastman Post 280 will resume Wednesday, September 18 at the Post Hall at 3 Depot Street at 7:00 pm. The monthly meetings will continue through June 2014 on the third Wednesday of each month.

The meeting for September will cover the normal monthly reports and will also review the extremely successful First Annual Clam Boil held at Shipyard Park in July. The boil was strongly supported by the residents of our town and definitely should become an annual event for the post.

Marion Art Center Exhibits

"New England Shores" and "Remembrance the Pink Chair Project," by Georgetown, Mass. artist Lynne Schulte, will be shown at the Marion Art Center from October 4 to November 15. The Marion Art Center is located at 80 Pleasant (the corner of Pleasant and Main Streets) in Marion. A reception honoring the artist will be hosted by Art Center members and their guests on Friday, October 4 from 6:00 to 8:00 pm.

"New England Shores," showing in the Cecil Clark Davis Gallery, is an exhibition of oil paintings of coastal images from the shores of Massachusetts and Maine. They range from artifacts of the working waterfront or seaside parks to images that show the pure beauty of sea and sky.

"Remembrance the Pink Chair Project," which will be installed in the Patsy Francis Gallery, is a love story and celebrates the memory of Lynne Schulte's mother in moving and beautiful images. Lynne sensed her mother's presence while painting an Adirondack chair of her mother's favorite color bright, knock-your-socks-off pink. After the initial surprise of that experience, Lynne began placing the chair into various locations that had special meaning to the artist or her mother. In this way, the artist has created a cohesive body of work that shines both as individual paintings and as a sensitive and powerful grouping.

Each pink chair painting has a story. As she painted, Lynne understood more about her mother, about her relationship with her mother, and herself. These stories are written and posted with the paintings. Gallery visitors are invited to participate in the project by sitting in the "Pink Chair," posting a note to a loved one, or by writing a longer excerpt in the Remembrance book.

"Remembrance – The Pink Chair Project" is currently traveling and will have future stops in Marblehead Public Library (Dec 2013/Jan 2014), Provident Bank, Amesbury (March/April 2014), Lark Rising Gallery, Rockport (May 2014), and will have its final showing at the Exeter, New Hampshire Hospital in June/August 2014.

Both plein air and studio oil paintings of Lynne's have their beginning in an observed object or setting, either from nature or the built environment, and are concerned with place and narrative. Paintings speak of a one-time experience or coalesce into a series of connected stories. Through all, the artist responds to the transforming power of the light and to the internal energies of nature.

The Marion Art Center, a nonprofit organization, is open to the public and there is no charge for admittance. Gallery Hours: Tuesday through Friday from 1:00 to 5:00 pm and Saturdays from 10:00 am to 2:00 pm.

MOVIE REVIEW

Pub Crawl

By Rob Gonsalves
www.robsmovievault.com

The World's End*. Starring Simon Pegg and Nick Frost. Directed by Edgar Wright. Running time: 109 minutes. MPAA rating: R.

Once again, Edgar Wright has directed the brightest bit of fun in a lugubrious summer. The World's End starts out as a rueful where-have-the-years-gone comedy in the mold of Grosse Pointe Blank (complete with killer soundtrack) and somehow morphs into a mid-period John Carpenter sci-fi film (complete with stock-still antagonists whose eyes and mouths glow like Christine's headlights, bisecting the wide frame with blue lens flares). Both movies within this movie are fresh and convivial, though the structure borrows from Wright's Shaun of the Dead, in which the distracted protagonists were oblivious to the scope of the problem for a comically long time. Here, the problem is people in the town of Newton Haven being replaced by robots who shed blue blood (aristocrats?) and lose their limbs a tad too readily to be the terminators they seem to want to be.

Gary King (Simon Pegg), an alcoholic ne'er-do-well approaching forty, yearns for the golden year of 1990 — the year he and his four best mates from school tried and, alas, failed to drink their way through twelve pubs in a night. Gary contrives to convene the old lads again — Andy (Nick Frost), Oliver (Martin Freeman), Steven (Paddy Considine), and Peter (Eddie Marsan) — though they've all moved on and become respectable. Gary's epic idea is to re-enact the pub crawl, and finish it this time. Eventually the lads give in, knowing that arguing with Gary is futile. At the fourth pub in the crawl, it becomes fairly evident that all is not what it seems.

It's entirely possible that, like Grosse Pointe Blank, The World's End will resonate most directly and viscerally for those who were Gary's age or thereabouts at the dawn of the '90s. The bold strut, early on, of Primal Scream's "Loaded" (with its bite from Peter Fonda: "We wanna be free to do what we wanna do! And we wanna get loaded!") took me right back to college and assured me I was in good nostalgic hands. But the songs aren't just Super Sounds of the '90s; many of the tunes, like the one noted, express the film's theme of pursuing freedom in the face of authority and conformity. Wright and Pegg, who again cowrote the script, tweak the other four fellows for putting their party days aside, but Gary emerges as the film's saddest character, a freedom fighter in his own mind who in truth wears the thickest chains.

The movie casts Pegg and Frost against type: in their previous two efforts with Wright, Pegg was the uptight striver and Frost the dissolute screw-up, and here it's the reverse. The scenes of Gary trying to reconnect with his resentful former best mate Andy play like a scrawnier Falstaff appealing in vain to the fond memories of Prince Hal. Gary is also the right age to have seen, memorized, and worn out the video of Withnail & I, though the film is sensibly never addressed here — we look at Gary and we know he sees himself as Withnail 2.0, sneering in the rain "And yet, to me, what is this quintessence of dust?," though missing the tragic point of that famous scene. Pegg gives us a delusional anti-hero who develops into a deeply flawed hero and eventually, by movie's end, a bona fide John Carpenter hero.

By turns, The World's End is better-choreographed than most of what's been passed off as action this summer; funnier than most comedies this season; and, at times, scarier than most horror films in the last few months — the scene involving Gary's old flame Sam (Rosamund Pike) and a pair of twins is pretty creepy. It's a full package of entertainment, genuflecting to the sci-fi of John Wyndham as well as to the cinema of John Carpenter (who adapted Wyndham's The Midwich Cuckoos). As in Shaun of the Dead and Hot Fuzz, Wright and Pegg love to mix their British and American pulp influences into one spiky drink. I wasn't a huge fan of Hot Fuzz, feeling that Wright and Pegg were too smart to go on riffing on other creators' work, but what they've done here feels personal, not so much derivative. There's a sincere melancholy to it. You literally can't go home again, nor, apparently, can you drink there the way you once did.

Most Valuable Student Scholarship

The Massachusetts Elks Association is pleased to announce its 2013-2014 academic year Most Valuable Student Scholarship program sponsored by the Elks National Foundation. Last year, Massachusetts was honored to have one of its students receive the National First-Place award of $60,000 ($15,000/year). The recipient of the prestigious award was Anish Athalye through the Worcester Lodge of Elks, #243. Anish will be attending MIT in the fall and we wish him well in his endeavors.

Through the Most Valuable Student Scholarship program, established in 1933, the Elks National Foundation has helped thousands of students who need financial assistance to fulfill their dreams of attending college. MVS scholars are outstanding students who are at or near the top of their class, active in school and community activities, and recognized as leaders by their peers. Students will be judged on scholarship, leadership and financial need and the award is available to any high school senior who is a U.S. Citizen.

The ENF awards $2,440,000 annually in MVS scholarships to 500 high school seniors nationwide, (19 in Massachusetts). The first- and second-place awards are the largest scholarships provided by any major fraternal

TriTOWN HAPPENINGS

The Mattapoisett Lions Club hosted the first in a series of outdoor movie nights at Shipyard Park. A good-sized crowd comprised of people of all ages, the young and the young at heart, gathered in a variety of seating arrangements to enjoy an open-air viewing of Back to the Future. A summer's hard work has paid off. Under the coaching of Chick Renfrew, members of the Sippican Tennis Club in Marion – including Hope Anderson, Alex Bilodeau, Tim Bolick, Alex Cannell, Caroline Godfrey, Henry Godfrey, Melissa Hooke Isabella Horstmann, Victoire Keane, Becky Kendall, Ollie Kendall, Julia Nojeim, Ollie Sughrue, Owen Sughrue, Elizabeth Tarrant and Parker Tonissi – competed in local tennis matches on the Sippican Tennis Club 18 and Under USTA team.

After playing eight matches in the Southeast Massachusetts USTA Summer League, the 7-1 Sippican team qualified to play in the Southeastern Massachusetts Section Championships in Winchester on August 6. After facing strong competition from the Fairhaven Tennis Academy and the Racquet Club of Newburyport, Sippican came out on top.

With this win, the Marion team was invited to Amherst College to play in the New England Championships August 14-15.

Sippican played the top team from each of Western Massachusetts, Connecticut, Maine, New Hampshire, and Vermont. Each of the six regional teams represented fielded a mixed doubles team, a girls' and boys' singles team, and a girls' and boys' doubles team. Playing for Sippican were Caroline Godfrey and Tim Bolick at mixed doubles, Victoire Keane at girls' singles, Ollie Kendall at boys' singles, Hope Anderson and Julia Nojeim at girls' doubles, and Ollie Sughrue, Owen Sughrue, and Henry Godfrey switching at boys' doubles.

Over the course of the two-day tournament, each member fought hard to earn every game possible. Out of a maximum 200 points, Sippican earned 163. By the end of the tournament, Sippican clawed out third place, earning the title of being the third-best team in all of New England. Photo and caption courtesy Julia Nojeim.

Wonder by R.J. Palacio. Auggie Pullman was born with a facial deformity that prevented him from going to a mainstream school. But now he's about to enter fifth grade at Beecher Prep. Auggie's an ordinary kid with an extraordinary face. Can he convince his classmates that he's just like them, despite his appearance? This book delves into bullying, acceptance of those with differences, and society's notion of what makes a person "beautiful." We will be discussing this book on Thursday, September 26 at 6:30 pm. Books are available at the desk, or bring your own copy. Café Parlez is sponsored by the Friends of Plumb Library.

SALOME'S STARS

ARIES (March 21 to April 19) A little "wool-gathering" for the usually productive Lamb is all right if it helps you unwind. But be careful; too much daydreaming can put you behind schedule in your work.

TAURUS (April 20 to May 20) A work problem is close to being resolved. Now you can go ahead and celebrate the week, accepting invitations from friends who enjoy your company.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 20) Getting your new plan accepted won't be a major hassle if you have the facts to back it up. Your supporters are also prepared to help you make your case. Good luck.

CANCER (June 21 to July 22) Dealing with a pesky job problem might be time-consuming but necessary. The sooner you get this situation settled, the sooner you can move on to other matters.

LEO (July 23 to August 22) Career advancement is favored thanks to your impressive work record. On the personal side, you should soon hear some good news about an ailing family member.

VIRGO (August 23 to September 22) There might be mixed signals from a certain someone who doesn't seem all that certain about his or her intentions. Best to sort it all out before it becomes more confusing.

LIBRA (September 23 to October 22) Get all the facts about that investment "opportunity" before you put even one dollar into it. There could be hidden problems that could prove to be costly.

SCORPIO (October 23 to November 21) Compromising on a matter you feel strongly about not only ends the impasse, but can be a win-win deal for all. Remember: Scorpions do well with change.

SAGITTARIUS (November 22 to December 21) With all the demands you currently have to deal with, accepting the help of family and friends could be the wisest course to take at this time.

PISCES (February 19 to March 20) A soft approach could be more effective than making a loud demand for the information you need. You might even find yourself with more data than you expected.

BORN THIS WEEK: You're sought out for the wonderful advice you're able to offer to others. And sometimes you even take it yourself.

Participants can choose between two picturesque routes: a 75-mile course that begins at Westport's Horseneck Beach State Reservation or a 35-mile option that begins at Eastover Farm in Rochester, both finishing at Quissett Harbor in Woods Hole. Along the way, riders will enjoy scenic views of Southeastern Massachusetts' beaches, harbors, rivers, farms and forests awash in the colors of early fall.

With a lunch stop, water and snack stations along the course, and on-the-road repair technicians available at call, riders can feel confident that the course is safe and fully supported. At the finish line, the 150-plus riders will be greeted by a crowd of cheering supporters and a celebration with food, drinks and live music by The Dancing Dogs.

So pump up your tires, strap on your helmet and start training! The Buzzards Bay Watershed Ride is a little more than a month away. ### BBC Applying for Accreditation

The Buzzards Bay Coalition and its independent affiliate, the Acushnet River Reserve, are pleased to announce they are applying for accreditation with the Land Trust Accreditation Commission, a program that recognizes land conservation organizations that meet national quality standards for forever protecting important natural places and working lands. ### Revolutionary War Encampment at Fort Phoenix

In September 1778 during the Revolutionary War, about 4,000 British soldiers who landed from 36 transport ships attacked the four villages situated on the Acushnet River. During the raid, houses, ships and business places in New Bedford, Acushnet and Fairhaven were ransacked and burned. The fort at Nolscot Point in Fairhaven, now called Fort Phoenix, was destroyed by British troops. It took years for the local waterfront industries to recover from the raid.

On Saturday and Sunday, September 21 and 22, members of the Fairhaven Village Militia and will once again recall the days of the British attack during a weekend encampment at Fort Phoenix. Men, women and children dressed in period clothing will re-enact life in 1778 and talk about the history of the fort. They will also be demonstrating campfire cooking, musket ball casting, military drilling, loading and firing flintlock muskets and rifles, cannon firing, colonial handcrafts, 18th-century dentistry and medicine, and more. Visitors may try their hand at tomahawk throwing and children's games of the period.

The highlight of the weekend will be the firing of the fort's five cannons, scheduled for dusk, about 6:30 pm, on Saturday. When fired near sundown, the cannons' plumes of flames and smoke make a spectacular sight.

The Fairhaven Village Militia, which is sponsoring the event along with the Fairhaven Office of Tourism, is made up of members who are interested in the local history of the Revolutionary War period. They hold historical encampments in Fairhaven and nearby communities and host educational programs. The group's commander, Ellsworth Sylvaria, Jr., is a descendant of Bartholomew West, whose home was burned by the British in 1778. The group includes individuals and families from Fairhaven and surrounding communities.

"We have been holding September encampments at Fort Phoenix since 2003," says Tourism Director Christopher Richard. "A few years ago, we started holding them in the spring, as well. Since we began our programs at the fort, thousands of people, including hundreds of school children, cruise ship passengers, visitors and local residents, have visited us at Fort Phoenix. They find our presentations are both educational and entertaining. The militia has also taken part in events at Fort Taber in New Bedford, and has paraded and camped in surrounding communities during special events.

"This year some members of a British reenacting group, the 54th Regiment of Foot, have been invited to take part in the weekend activities at the fort.

"At the encampment, the group is depicting camp life during the Revolutionary War period. There will be regular demonstrations of musket firing and the firing of our own small cannon, but there will be no large-scale battle re-enactments."

Both the cannon firing and the overnight encampment will be cancelled in the event of rain. Weather permitting, the militia will be at the fort from 9:00 am Saturday until about 3:00 pm Sunday.

Members of the militia will also be holding a fundraising bake sale and selling t-shirts during the event.

For more information, call the Office of Tourism at 508-979-4085 or email fairhaventours@aol.com.

Mattapoisett Friends of the Elderly News

Our mission is to support the seniors of Mattapoisett and the Council on Aging. We do this most directly by hosting three luncheons at the Knights of Columbus Hall for Mattapoisett seniors. Introduced this past year, we sponsored a live band and Ballroom Dancing Party held at the KoC Hall. We had a Fall Luncheon to welcome the end of summer; for the Holiday Party, Santa and his elf assisted with the drawings; and a Leprechaun helped at the St. Patrick's Day Party. As usual, our FoE Directors planned, set up and served the food. It is really a group effort to serve the 100 folks who attend. Thanks to all.

our sponsorship of the Seasonings monthly newsletter. The FoE pays for the mailing permit and the cost of each monthly mailing. FoE Directors and members, along with CoA volunteers, assist in the folding and sealing of the approximately 1,200 individual pieces. Less obvious contributions are the continuous replenishment of coffee, tea, coffee cups and office supplies that are used daily. The Friends also respond to requests for items that are used in Senior Center activities, such as weights, large format scrabble tiles and bingo cards. In past years, we contributed to the cost of the new CoA sign outside of the entrance; to the replacement of computer and software for the CoA Director; and paid for compatible defibrillators for the newer CoA vans.

Thanks to the efforts of our Fundraising Committee and the Directors, we have had a successful Easter Pie and Goodies Sale, and a Harbor Days table. We supplemented our sales with attractive raffle items and had 50/50 luncheon raffles. This year, we sold a newly designed apron suitable for outdoor cooking. In addition, we had incidental sales of scrimshaw print sets, note cards, and adorable wire-frame wool poodles. Another source of funds is donations and membership dues. Every bit counts!

It is clear: Our success is due to the energy and dedication of our Directors. Good job, everyone!
